

Ever dreamt of thrashing your workplace?

Now is the time for you to turn a fancy office into waste land.

New Game enables you to get the frustrations of a mind numbing 9-17 workday out!

Office Rage is a therapeutic game for when your real life boss is a bastard or the coworkers are annoying and you need to unleash some wicked thrashing in an excessive fashion without loosing your real life job.

The game is an all-action game based on picking up, throwing and destroying objects in the work place. You are plunged into a battle zone, as a disgruntled employee, where you are charged with wreaking havoc within an office space. The more you destroy, the stronger you grow as you work against the clock. The time based challenge of obliterating the office space before the security guard arrive, allow you to destroy what you want, when you want! When time runs out, the security guard shows up and neutralizes you with his tazer – so you have to be quick to get on the high score!

“Go from mr Nice Guy to mr Caveman”

Quote: Game director Petter Madegård

The theme of the game is inspired of the growing trend of office workers, who snap and go ballistic in their work place. Confirming this tendency are the many security tapes posted on YouTube, which again is a huge inspiration of the game Office Rage.

Office Rage is a 2010 DADIU Student production and has been developed in Unity for the web. Team Red Stapler Production is very proud to release a game that we feel has a diverse action packed gameplay, which supply both casual and hardcore gamers with the ability to tear through the office space! The limited timeframe makes the fun game a quick escape from the daily turmoil of the treadmill. And Office Rage can be played again and again.

Link: www.officerage.dk

Contact information

Project manager

Charlotte Majlund Madsen

Mail: charlottemajlund@gmail.com

